Student Drive For Chapel Funds Begins Monday

Mr. John Z. McGuire, chairman of the Development Fund Committee addressed the Student Forum Nov. 12 concerning the Development Fund's new project, the chapel.

With a sound of urgency he spoke about the support needed from the student body in order to make this drive a success.

He urged the student body to show the remarkable unity he has seen among students by supporting this new drive.

Pat Bergin, president of the Student Forum appointed Richard Santors, vice president of the Forum and senior class president, to head the drive among the students. Santora will be helped by Michael Smith, William O'Connell and Russell Gervais, presidents of the junior, sophomore and freshman classes, respectively.

To add incentive to the drive, each class will choose a memorial suggested by Mr. McGuire. Chapel windows, confessionals or a chalice for the main altar were among the suggestions. The memorial would be placed in the chapel with a plaque indicating the class donor.

A minimum donation will be determined by the committee. Each student will give his donation at the beginning of the drive or pledge an amount and pay it weekly.

The drive will begin Dec. 3 and will end at the end of March.

"Buddy Week" To Be Held Dec. 2-8

During the week of Dec. 2 through Dec. 8, St. Michael's College students will hold the third annual "Buddy Week," designed to promote fuller association between themselves and the foreign students currently resident on campus.

On Tuesday, Dec. 4, all foreign students will be the guests of the Athletic Office at the season's first home-game, against Norwich.

On Thursday, Dec. 6 there will be a coffee hour-reception in Alliot Hall at 4:00 in honor of our foreign students, to which all St. Michael's faculty members and students are invited to attend.

At this reception American and foreign students will, according to former custom, be "paired" for week-long association.

Faculty members or students who again wish to invite foreign students to be their dinner or house guests -(during "Buddy Week" or anytime during the coming holidays) should contact Rev. Armand Couture, S.S.E.

Socialized Medicine Is State Monopoly, Says Mr. Gianelli

by Kirk R. Weixel

"Why must there be a state monopoly in order to help the aged?" Mr. Arnold P. Gianelli, Associate Professor of Economics and Business Administration, asked during his Wednesday evening lecture concerning Socialized Medicine and Medical Care for the Aged.

Mr. Gianelli combined factual knowledge with wry wit to present an interesting, although poorly attended, discussion, sponsored by the Pre-Med Society of St. Michael's.

At one point during the lecture, Mr. Gianelli discussed the original idea of Socialized Medicine in England. He stated that when the plan was originally proposed, even free teeth were distributed to the toothless Britishers. He jokingly referred to a minister who was telling his congregation, "There will be weeping and gnashing of teeth." "But I don't have any teeth," one parishoner replied. "Teeth will be supplied," was the minister's answer. Mr. Gianelli then pointed out that the demand was so great, that the British Government had to withdraw this proposal.

Again making reference to the British system, he felt that the state was gradually taking over the role of the Church in moral questions and that doctors would be limited by their religious beliefs. He quoted one British doctor who believes that soon Catholic doctors will be unable to work in British hospitals due to the fact that their religious principles would limit the types of operations such as abortions, sterilizations and the like, that they could perform.

He claimed the King-Anderson Bill, recently defeated in congress, is "anti-medical". "In what way does the power given the politician differ from totalitarianism . . .?" Mr. Gianelli asked, "We seem to forget that we are not a monarchy." He favors any plan that is not regulated by the Federal Government. "Politicians offer us protection while they have their hands in our pockets," he added.

He pointed out that under the King-Anderson Bill, the benefits are unlimited. A person can demand he be kept alive even if this is being done with artificial parts for the person's body. Even the Popes have stated that this extreme is not absolutely necessary. Referring to former President Eisenhower's health condition, Mr. Gianelli asked if anyone would claim that it was economically sane to have kept the President alive.

A heated question and answer period followed the lecture. Two students in particular, armed with statistics, magazine articles, Supreme Court decisions, etc., disputed Mr. Gianelli's views.

In summation, he said, "I see no justification for setting up a free health service for all, and even worse, a state monopoly."

Christmas Concert December 9

The annual St. Michael's College Christmas Concert will be presented this year on Sunday evening, December 9, at 8.

The event, which will take place in the Playhouse here on campus, will feature the Glee Club, Choir and Band in a program of music appropriate to the Christmas season. Free to all students and to residents of the Burlington area, the concert every year has provided a fine evening of entertainment prior to the students' departure from St. Michael's for Christmas vacation.

The Glee Club and the Choir will be directed by Mr. William Tortolano, head of the Department of Music. The Glee Club will sing the "Te Deum" of Flor Peeters; the duet from Bach's "Cantata 125" with a string orchestral accompaniment; and two motets -- Hasler's "Cantate Domino" and Lvovsky's "Hospodi Pomilui," a hymn of the Russian liturgy which will be sung in Russian. The accompanist for the Glee Club is Thomas Corcoran.

The Choir will present a Mass for two voices and percussion by Virgil Thomson. This is a very unusual mass, somewhat similar to the "Missa Luba" which was presented on our radio station WSSE, last year. It is a non-liturgical concert piece, a Mass that may not be presented in church but only in concert. The Choir will also present several 16th-century motets.

The ROTC Band, now being directed by Mr. James Beams of the University of Vermont, will play "In the Cathedral," Holst's "First Suite for Band", and other numbers appropriate to the season.

The Band, benefiting from an expanded membership and a talented director, has been practicing regularly in anticipation of the Christmas concert.

Missioner Talks On Lay Volunteers Monday Night

The Reverend John J. Sullivan, national director of the Extension Lay Volunteers, will present the need for qualified lay people to serve in the home missions on Monday, Dec. 3, at 7:00 in Alliot Hall.

A veteran home missioner himself, Father Sullivan is visiting some 200 Catholic colleges in the United States in his search to fill 500 volunteer openings for teachers, catechists and nurses in various parts of the American south and west.

At the request of the local bishop, Extension Lay Volunteers are assigned to those home missions where there is a real need for their services and where local personnel is not available to fill that need. Today 180 men and women from 31 states are serving in 65 parishes and institutions in Louisiana, Texas, Missouri, Wyoming, Nebraska, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Colorado and New Mexico. Most of the volunteers are recent college graduates, 86 colleges are represented.

Brochures, applications and further information of the Extension Lay Volunteer program may be obtained at any time from Father Ziter.

The Student Body is invited.

The 1962-63 basketball season gets underway tonight as the Purple Knights meet Colby at Waterville, Maine. On Wednesday, the Saints will play their home opener against Norwich in what will be the first state clash.

Coach Doc Jacobs will be going for his eighth straight Vermont state title and hopes to improve on the team's record during the last three campaigns.

The 22-game schedule includes a game against powerful Holy Cross, Dec. 15. This clash between the top New England big and small college powers seems to be the big one for St. Michael's.

A large number of Michaelmen are expected to attend the Colby game and as usual home tilts will be played before a packed auditorium.

Although we expect to end the season with a high percentage of victories, it is most probable that the Knights will lose some of the games.

It is our obligation to show our good sportsmanship by putting into practice the principles of Christian charity we have been taught, in victory as well as in defeat.

Thursday's rally showed the enthusiasm reigning on campus for the coming season. Let's give the team our backing.

Go, Knights, go!

A new money-raising campaign will begin Monday. The funds will be used for the construction of the chapel, the next building scheduled in the development program. After partial solving of the physical needs of the college, the school authorities have decided to take care of the spiritual needs of the students by building the chapel.

We are bound to support the campaign and show our interest in the growth of St. Michael's.

Liturgy Day Is Tomorrow

A Diocesan Liturgy Day for College Students will be held Sunday, Dec. 2, at St. Michael's College.

Rev. Shaun Sheehan of St. John's Seminary, Brighton, Mass., will speak at the four student Masses and also at a public meeting at 1:30 in Austin Hall. He has just completed a similar Liturgy Day program in the Hartford Archdiocese.

The program is under the direction of the Liturgy Day Conference. Chairman is Ronald J. Eicher Commack, N.Y., sophomore. Faculty advisors are Prof. Bernard M. Gore and Prof. Joseph A. Powers.

An exhibit of liturgical literature will be offered during the day in Alliot Hall and a panel discussion has been set up on the theme of "Living in Christ".

STUDENT FORUM

by Bill Eagan

A heated debate was the highlight of this week's meeting of the Student Forum. A motion introduced by Bill Batewell, to have WSSE broadcast the Colby game, touched off the longest debate of the year.

The broadcast would have cost approximately $125 and the discussion ranged from the ability to the advisability of paying this amount. The meeting was bogged down by some rather complicated points of parliamentary procedure that tended to extend the meeting more than the discussion of the broadcast.

The motion met defeat when it was decided that there would not be sufficient interest to make the broadcast advisable. The ability of the Forum to pay for this project also met with some very serious scrutiny.

MORE WSSE

The campus radio station came under consideration again when the Student Welfare Committee was asked to investigate range of broadcast, hours, and programming. Joe Hanley brought up this motion because of a demand by the student body for a need in these particular areas. During these debates concerning the radio station, the station was represented by many people since the regular representative was not in attendance.

Bob Kelley introduced a motion to have the Student Welfare Committee look into the possibility of returning chocolate milk to the dining hall.

Permission for a lecture in Austin Hall was requested by Charles Burke, the Pre-Med Society representative. The lecture was requested late since the opportunity for the lecture was only recent.

LAST WEEK'S MEETING

At a meeting on November 19, the majority of the business was assigned to the Student Welfare Committee as is the usual practice. These were spread between social and spiritual motions.

Frank McKevitt moved to have the Welfare Committee investigate the possibility of the Sophomore class holding dances after the home basketball games. The motion was passed.

Another chance to get last year's yearbook was the subject of Richard Moughan's motion. This motion was also assigned to the Welfare Committee.

The chairman of the Welfare Committee, Joe Hogan, gave himself the job of attempting to get the gym closed during the hours of Mass in the afternoons.

Two dances were approved by the Forum at this meeting. The first was for the Sophomore class and the second was for the Chemistry Club.

FROM THE LILLY PAD

By Bob Lilly

Governor Ross Barnett of Mississippi is the privileged recipient of a gift subscription to a magazine. The magazine, Ebony, is being sent courtesy of some students in Lyons Hall who donated their last pennies in an unprecedented display of charity. Who knows, maybe they will get a thank-you note from this courteous respecter of human rights and loyal upholder of the Constitution?

To those who are struggling through one of the required Philosophy courses at SMC, don't lose heart. Compared to the Brothers taking advanced Metaphysics you've really got it easy. These poor men not only have to take this difficult subject but they have to take it in Latin! Even their tests are in Latin. So take heart, men, it could be worse.

* * * * * *

One of the most frequently heard complaints around campus these days is directed against the laundry. Many students cannot understand how they can send a size 15 1/2 shirt out to be cleaned and get a size 15 back. Also, after seeing some of the shirts that come back without any starch (supposedly) one cannot help but wonder what a shirt with starch looks like -- or feels like for that matter.

* * * * * *

All students are familiar with the serene face of Father Eugene Alliot, S.S.E., on one of his daily walks across campus, but few are familiar with his accomplishments. Father Alliot was ordained on January 20, 1905 and was made the fifth president of the college. Before taking this position he had been Prefect of Studies, Prefect of Discipline and Treasurer besides being Professor of Mathematics and Sciences. He had also been an instructor in languages and in Political Economy. Even while president he continued to carry a normal teaching load. Today he is far from retired being pastor of the Catholic Church in Williston, making a daily trip to that parish. If you don't feel well, remember he was rejected by his diocese "for poor health" before he joined the Edmundites.

Letter To The Editor

To the Editor,

On Thanksgiving night, a group of students in the regular course, who had stayed on campus during the vacation, went to the gymnasium to play basketball. Although the door was open, the lights were off and the switch was locked. We contacted the school authorities, but nobody seemed to have the key to open the switch.

I would like to know why this happened if we ay our fees and the catalogue says that the school and its facilities will not be closed during the short vacations.

Why Not Ask A Foreign Student Home Christmas?

While most of us were home enjoying our turkey dinners on Thanksgiving day, many of the foreign students at St. Michael's enjoyed their holiday at the homes of other Michaelmen.

Those students from foreign countries, who are in the English for Foreign Students Program were welcomed into the houses of many local people. The Vt. Council on World Affairs was especially helpful.

Antonio Ceriergiao of Portugal and Simon Mpondo of Cameroun, because of their high grades, were invited by Goddard College in Plainfield, Vermont, to spend the holidays there. They were shown around the campus, which was in session, and around the town. During their stay, which lasted from Wednesday to Sunday evening, they attended a dance at the school.

As of now, 25 of the students engaged in the English program here have no place to spend the Christmas holidays since they are too far from home to return for such a short time.

It is hoped that some students will invite these boys, who are so far from their native lands, to stay with them for the Christmas vacations.

Anyone interested should contact Fr. Armand Couture, S.S.E. He has his offices over in Founders Hall.

Michaelmen Student Teaching

Fifteen seniors at St. Michael's College are doing their practice teaching in Vermont schools this year as preparation for careers in education.

Representing nearly 10 per cent of the senior class, the group is specially screened by the Education Department faculty so that teaching hopefuls will be practicing in the field of their own concentration.

Frank Dermody, Assistant Professor of Education and supervisor of student teaching, said that the Department encourages only those with solid attainments in a special field to try teaching.

For six weeks, the seniors work under experienced teachers in Vermont high schools and junior highs, starting first with the simplest assignments and then working into the full preparation and presentation of subject materials. They are checked doubly, by Prof. Dermody and by the helping teacher. Help is often given by principals in the cooperating schools.

Fifteen of the seniors are now learning the ropes. Two others will do their student teaching in the Spring, after basketball season.

Those now in the field, their fields of specialization and the schools that are helping them are:

Walter J. McGrail, 16 Park St., Clinton, Mass., English - Milton High School;

Kozhaya Akiki, 110 Main St., Tupper Lake, N.Y. French - Saranac Lake, N.Y.

John H. Tracy, 9 Circle Lane, Albany, N.Y., English - Burlington High School;

HAPPY TALK

As we all know, conversation is terribly important on a date. When lulls in the conversation run longer than an hour or two, one's partner is inclined to grow logy—even sullen. But occasionally one finds it difficult to keep the talk going, especially when one is having a first date with one. What, then, does one do?

If one is wise, one follows the brilliant example of Harlow Thurlow.

Harlow Thurlow prepares. That is his simple secret. When Harlow is going to take out a new girl, he makes sure in advance that the conversation will not languish. Before the date, he goes to the library and reads all 24 volumes of the encyclopedia and transcribes their contents on his cuffs. Thus he makes sure that no matter what his date's interests are, he will have ample material to keep the conversation alive.

Take, for example, Harlow's first date with Priscilla de Gasser, a fine, strapping, blue-eyed broth of a girl, lavishly constructed and rosy as the dawn.

Harlow was, as always, prepared when he called for Priscilla, and, as always, he did not start to converse immediately. First he took her to dinner because, as everyone knows, it is useless to try to make conversation with an unfed coed. Her attention span is negligible. Also, her stomach rumbles so loud it is difficult to make yourself heard.

"Wash your cuffs and be my love!"

So he took her to a fine steak house where he stoked her with gobbets of Black Angus and mounds of French fries and thickets of escarole and battalions of petit fours. Then, at last, dinner was over and the waiter brought two finger bowls.

"I hope you enjoyed your dinner, my dear," said Harlow, dipping into his finger bowl.

"Oh, it was grandy-dandy!" said Priscilla. "Now let's go someplace for ribs."

"Later, perhaps," said Harlow. "But right now, I thought we might have a conversation."

"Oh, goody, goody, two-shoes!" cried Priscilla. "I been looking everywhere for a boy who can carry on a intelligent conversation."

"Your search is ended, madam," said Harlow, and pulled back his sleeves and looked at his cuffs to pick a likely topic to start the conversation.

Oh, woe! Oh, lackaday! Those cuffs on which Harlow had painstakingly transcribed so many facts—those cuffs on which he had noted such diverse and fascinating information—those cuffs, I say, were nothing now but a big, blue blur! For Harlow—poor Harlow!—splashing around in the finger bowl, had gotten his cuffs wet and the ink had run and not one word was legible! And Harlow—poor Harlow!—looked upon his cuffs and broke out in a night sweat and fell dumb.

"I must say," said Priscilla after several silent hours, "that you are a very dull fellow. I'm leaving."

With that she flounced away and poor Harlow was too crushed to protest. Sadly he sat and sadly lit a cigarette.

All of a sudden Priscilla came rushing back. "Was that," she asked, "a Marlboro you just lit?"

"Yes," said Harlow.

"Then you are not a dull fellow," she cried, and sprang into his lap. "You are bright! Anybody is bright to smoke such a perfect joy of a cigarette as Marlboro which is just chock full of yummy flavor, which has a Selectrate filter which comes in a soft pack that is really soft, and a Flip-Top Box that really flips, and which can be bought wherever cigarettes are sold in all fifty states and Duluth . . . Harlow, tiger, wash your cuffs and be my love."

"Okay," said Harlow, and did, and was. © 1962 Max Shulman

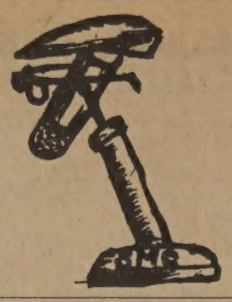
The makers of Marlboro cigarettes, who print this column at hideous expense throughout the school year, are very happy for Harlow—and for all the rest of you who have discovered the pleasures of Marlboro.

Michaelman's Mike



By Mike Tranghese

The time has arrived as the many weeks of anticipation will end tomorrow, when the Saints travel to Waterville, Maine in search of an opening game victory over the "Mules". Colby may have something to say about it since they are also anticipating a fine year. The many questions that are ever present in everyones mind will be answered. In this game of "judgment," Will Richie Tarrant display the scoring ability that he has fashioned throughout these past two months of practice? Will Walter Baumann display the rebounding power that he exhibited last year? Can Freddy Cerrato handle the task of a field general? The hot hand that Bobby Hoehl has fashioned during practice, will it remain that way? Will Eddie McDonnell and Marty King maintain the all around hustle and fight that they have been displaying? Finally, can Ed Kryger come through for us during the year as he did last year in helping the frosh to a undefeated season?

These are the questions that have been upon the lips of every Michaelman for the past few weeks. They will be answered as the Knights travel to Colby. They will also be answered at the home opener Tuesday night when we entertain the cadets from Norwich and Thursday at Middlebury for our second state series clash in three days.

In order for St. Michael's to attain a fine season it is a neccesity that all the questions stated above must be answered in a favorable manner.

Of the three games it seems that Colby has more to offer. The "Mules" are a solid, well built club, experienced in every phase of the game. They have a well balanced ball club that will feature their frontcourt terrors, Felderman and Stone. Of the nine losses that Colby had last year, seven of these were by less than five points. Indeed the Mules present an opening game test that no team envies.

Our home opener presents a few problems. The Cadets will present the greatest individual scoring threat that we will face during the year in the person of Fran Kasheta, Norwich's own version of Jack Foley. The Cadets under the tutelage of former Boston Celtic great Bob Brannum, are well trained and definitely will have an upset in their repertoire of ideas.

Norwich is rebounding origade will be led by 6'6" Tom Rogan who almost ruined last year's freshman team's dream of an undefeated season. It is quite evident therefore that Norwich has the gear to pull an upset.

The third ball game will be against the Panthers of Middlebury, who make up for their lack of talent by their all around hustle. The problem that they pose is simple. Can the team, after two tough tilts, maintain the momentum that they regained for their first two games?

In my opinion and I am sure yours, and most of all, the ball players, the Knights can journey down this opening week of "judgment" in a fashion that will again make our neighbors wonder why we have don so well. Do not search for the answer. "WE ARE THE BEST".

Mules Host Spirited Saints

The St. Michael's College basketball team will open up its 1962-1963 campaign by journeying to Waterville, Maine to tangle with the Colby Mules tonight. This also marks the opener for Colby, one of the perennial small college New England powers.

The Saints under the tutelage of George "Doc" Jacobs who has been head coach since 1947, will be fighting for New England recognition throughout the year in order to secure a berth to Evansville, Indiana. The Knights have been absent from the regionals the past two years and they will be out to halt this skein.

After Saturday's night game the team will be home to entertain the Norwich Cadets on Tuesday night in the first battle of the state series. Following this home opener the team will travel to Middlebury on Thursday night to tangle with the "Panthers".

Following these three tilts the team will be idle until the Christmas vacation when they travel to Worcester, Mass. on Dec. 15, to meet the "Crusaders" of Holy Cross in what seems to be shaping up as a tremendous battle. Then the Saints will leave the New England scene and travel to Camp Lejeune in North Carolina to participate in the three day Marine tournament, Dec. 18-21.

The starting team for tonight's opener has not been fully announced. The battle for the fifth spot has not been decided as yet as sophomore Ed Kryger and senior Bob Hoehl continue to search for the starting berth.

Senior Walt Bauman and sophomore Richie Tarrant will open in the frontcourt while senior Fred Cerrato and junior Eddie McDonnell will start in the backcourt.

The team will be backed by a strong bench led by junior Marty King along with sophomores Billy Cummins, Brian Quinn, Danny Connelly. Dick Keelty and John Jachym will add some more valuable experience to this years' strong bench.

The frosh will also be making their debut Tuesday night as they play the preliminary against the Norwich frosh who have been tabbed as having a powerful unit so this should stir up much excitement before the Squires take the hardcourt. The freshmen will also travel to Middlebury on Thursday in another preliminary against the frosh of Middlebury.

Intramural Hoop Season Begins

The 1962 intramural basketball season opened on Nov. 12, and if this game is an indication of what is to take place during the year, it looks like it is going to be a wild year.

In this opening game, the underdog Seniors thrashed out a convincing 54-42 win over coach John Soracco's defending champs. From the beginning it was evident that the Juniors were being outplayed as the Seniors controlled the backboards.

Gerry O'Neil and Richie Powers paced the Seniors with 14 points apiece with Powers notching 12 of his points in the second half. Chuck Rogers led the juniors and was high point man for the game with 17 points.

* * * * * *

The sophomores under the tutelage of Brian "Doc" Quinn defeated the Frosh 45-38 in a closely fought ball game. The game was nip and tuck most of the way up until the final four minutes when experience began to take over as the Sophs gradually began to pull away because of its superior board strength. The frosh were led by Bill Curtiss with 14 points while the Sophs were paced by Joe's 15 points.

* * * * * *

The Seniors, due to the fantastic shooting eye of Gerry O'Neil , along with the clutch foul shooting of Joe Morgan, took undisputed possession of first place with a 50-48 victory over the Sophomores in the battle of unbeaten. The Seniors were down by as much as eight points at the start of the final period when O'Neil suddenly caught fire to tie the game up to set the stage for Morgan's winning free throws after the clock had run out.

O'Neil led the Seniors and was high point man for the game with 16 points and Joe Morgan chipped in with 14 points. John Goodrow led the Sophomores with 15 points and he displayed fantastic jumping ability as he controlled the backboards throughout the ball game.

The Juniors led by jumping Joe Mauceri's 13 points squeezed out a 57-49 win over the Frosh who seem Destined to knock someone off. For the second straight night the Frosh were able to maintain a lead going into the final six minutes but once again experience and the Juniors' stronger rebounders were too much for the frosh to overcome. High point man for the ball game was Bill Curtiss of the Frosh who has 14 points.

An aroused Junior team led by the hot hand of Ed Goutas took sole command of second place in the battle of once beatens. The final score of 52143 does not indicate the thorough beating that the Juniors handed out to the Sophs who could just not buy a basket.

Ed Goutas who time and time again broke the backs of the Sophomores was high man for the game with 22 points while John "Perry" Goodrow led the Sophs with 15 points. Goutas' 22 point output is high for the league so far and with this point output Goutas moved himself into contention for the scoring title.

Last Chance

Athletic Director of St. Michael's college, Mr. George Jacobs has announced that the home basketball game tickets will be distributed for the final time on Tuesday between 11 and 2. The tickets will be distributed in Alliot Hall directly across from the cafeteria.

In the next issue of the Michaelmen will be announced when and where tickets may be purchased for the St. Michael's vs. Holy Cross game to be played in Worcester on Dec. 15.

St. Michael's riflers will shoot at Bowdoin College Saturday (Dec. 1). Bowdoin was one of the St. Michael's victims in their last encounter.

They are: Harry C. Haarup, Lawrence Cashman, David Gravel, Robert Hladick, Blaise McArdle, Paul Rodhouse, David Samson, Fred Speckels, James Whitman, and Edward Woods.
